

Hoagland Boulevard Project Development & Environment Study From US 17/92 (John Young Parkway) to US 192 (Vine Street)

THE PROJECT

The City of Kissimmee (City) and Osceola County (County) have begun a Project Development and Environment (PD&E) Study to identify a preferred alternative for the widening of Hoagland Boulevard/Pleasant Hill Road from US 17/92 (John Young Parkway) in the south to US 192 (Vine Street) in the north. The study area is shown on the map provided. This study will identify alternative typical sections for the corridor to meet capacity demands, to increase safety and to provide enhanced pedestrian features for residents and users of the corridor.

During the study process, the engineering, economic, social, and environmental impacts of the proposed project are being analyzed. The results of this analysis will provide a basis for the selection of the recommended improvements to the Hoagland Boulevard corridor.

PD&E STUDY

A PD&E study is a formal process used to ensure that transportation projects are developed with consideration of both engineering and environmental aspects, as well as the interests of the public.

The first stage of the PD&E Study is data collection, a process which continues throughout the study. During this stage, information is collected regarding property owners within the project corridor and other interested persons within the area, as well as information regarding various environmental and engineering resources that are determined to exist within the corridor.

The information collected during the data collection stage is used to compare various no-build and build alternatives for the corridor. These alternatives are compared on the basis of environmental, cultural and social, economic, and engineering characteristics.

It is important to the City and County that the interested public is provided opportunities for information exchanges. Throughout the course of the study, the public will have the opportunity to learn up-to-date information regarding the project, ask questions as they relate to the project, and interact with the City, the County and the Consultant Team.

PUBLIC MEETINGS

Public meetings will be held throughout the study process. The workshops will provide you with the opportunity to view and comment on the alternatives that are being considered. Meetings with organized groups will be scheduled as requested during the project. We urge you to participate in the study and invite your questions and comments.
